Public Website Privacy

What Is Covered by This Section? The paragraphs in this section describe how we use and disseminate information collected about Public Website Visitors through our Public Website, which includes the portions of our website that are publicly available without a password. It does not cover any other data processing activities.

Your Use of the Public Website Implies Consent. Your use of the Public Website signifies your acceptance of this Privacy Statement. If you do not agree or are not comfortable with any policy described in this Privacy Statement, your remedies are to discontinue your use of the Public Website.

Our Public Website does not intend to collect, maintain, store, use, or disclose personal information about children under the age of 13. In the event that we decide to collect personal information for limited purposes, such as participating in a contest, we will not do so without first providing parental notification, obtaining verifiable parental consent, and implementing the other requirements of the Children's Online Privacy Protection Act ("COPPA") - see www.coppa.org and <http://www.ftc.gov/privacy/privacyinitiatives/childrens.html>).

If You Don't Volunteer Any Personal Data, We Won't Collect Any Through the Public Website. We use cookies and various traffic tracking technologies to monitor the use of our Public Website. We collect such data related to IP addresses but do not link it to any personally identifiable information (such as names and email addresses) that you may voluntarily submit to us through other means.

Agents and Service Providers. We may engage data processing agents and service providers that assist us in the processing of personally identifiable information that Public Website Visitors may volunteer through the Public Website, as well as electronic messages and traffic data that is linked to IP addresses. Such third parties process data only on our behalf and are contractually obligated to refrain from using such data for their own purposes. Each time visitors visit our Public Website after they have submitted a Web Form to us or clicked on a particular link in a marketing email from us, we maintain a record of certain information about their visit including the pages viewed on our Public Website, the time of the visit, the order of pages accessed and the amount of time such visitors spend at each page. We use this information to better tailor our services to our visitors.

Use of Cookies. A cookie is a small text file containing information that a web browser transfers to your computer's hard disk for record-keeping purposes. On the Public Website, we may use cookies to analyze our site traffic or to ensure that our site functions as we desire. We link cookies only to IP addresses and not any personally identifiable information about Public Website Visitors (such as names or email addresses). For example, we currently use Google Analytics to analyze traffic to the Public Website. Other than as mentioned above, the software used by us does not have a database of individual profiles for each visitor connected to personally identifiable information. This third party software uses cookies to track non-personally identifiable information, and links cookies only to IP addresses and aggregate data about the traffic to the Public Website. Most web browsers automatically accept cookies. Please consult your browser's online help if you want information on restricting or disabling the browser's handling of cookies. If you disable cookies, you can still view the Public Website, but some features may not be available.

Volunteered Information Collected on the Public Website. Public Website Visitors may contact us in a variety of ways. Contact information, such as name, address, email addresses and/or phone number, is typically provided when using these methods. This information is used to provide the services that are requested by the Public Website Visitor (e.g. to respond to your request for further information about us or to send information to you if you request it, etc.).

Public Website Visitors may be able to submit a request to receive various information from us or from third parties. Each of these requests may produce an automated email response to the email address provided. If thereafter you prefer us not to provide information to you, you may let us know by following the instructions described in this policy.

We may also allow Public Website Visitors to contact us by email with questions, comments or requests. The information collected from these emails is used to reply to such questions, comments, or requests. Sometimes we retain these messages, so that we can improve the Public Website in the future.

Disclosure to Third Parties. In the course of our normal activities, we do not share personally identifiable data about Public Website Visitors with any independent third parties. In particular, we are not in the business of selling, renting or loaning personally identifiable information to independent third parties.

Nevertheless, we may have to disclose information to third parties when required by law or under the good-faith belief that such disclosure is necessary in order to conform to applicable law, comply with legal process served on us, or to protect our property or interests, our agents or employees, or the personal safety of others, or the public. Under such circumstances, we may be prohibited by law, court order or other legal process from providing notice of the disclosure, and we reserve the right to not provide such notice in our sole discretion.
